

MARYLAN

OF NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY-EIGHT

This is the forty-seventh volume of the University of Maryland annual. It was published by the student body at College Park in June, nineteen hundred and forty-eight. John E. Clark was editor, John B. Miller, business manager, and William H. Hottel, faculty advisor. The book was printed by Reese Press, Baltimore, Maryland; Engravings were made by Jahn and Ollier, Chicago, Illinois; Senior portraits were made by Merin Studios, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; The cover was designed and produced by Durand, Chicago, Illinois; Binding was done by Albrecht's, Baltimore, Maryland; Warren's 80-pound heavy lustro gloss paper was used and the inks were 105 Cedar Green and 106 Garnet manufactured by Lewis Roberts Company, Baltimore, Maryland.

to JAMES H. REID

His warm friendship and timely advice has aided many students through the trying years of college life.

Born in Lisbon, Iowa—B.S. from University of Iowa in 1923 and M.A. from American University in 1933—Came to Maryland in 1936—Professor of Business and Public Administration—Acting Dean of Men and advisor to student publications during war years, Chairman of Student Life Committee, member of Publications Board, Religious Life Committee, O.D.K., and Pi Delta Epsilon.

Many persons have had a part in the great development of the University of Maryland. Few, if any, have had a more sincere interest in the affairs of the students and in the growth of the University than Professor James H.

Born in Anne Arundel County—College of Agriculture A.B.—Coach of baseball and basketball for 25 years—Physical education instructor—Dean of Maryland coaches—President of "M" Club—Shipley, who played under President Byrd for two years, was one of Maryland's great in football and baseball.

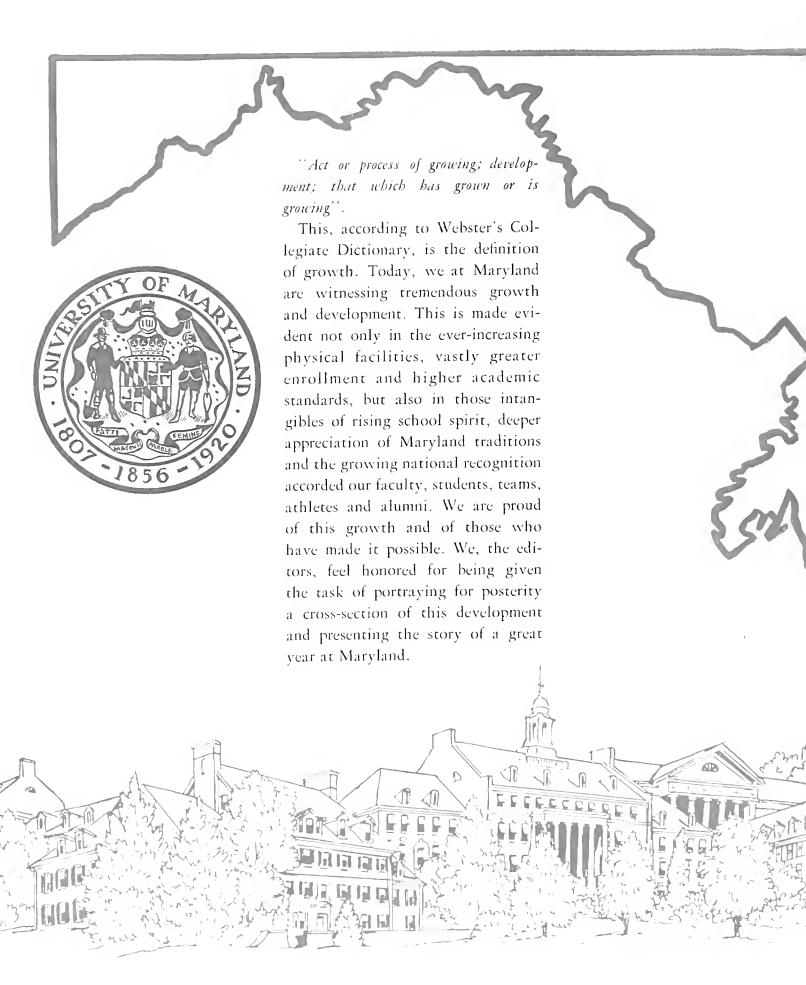

to H. BURTON SHIPLEY

His great personal interest in the members of his teams has marked his notable contribution to Maryland athletics.

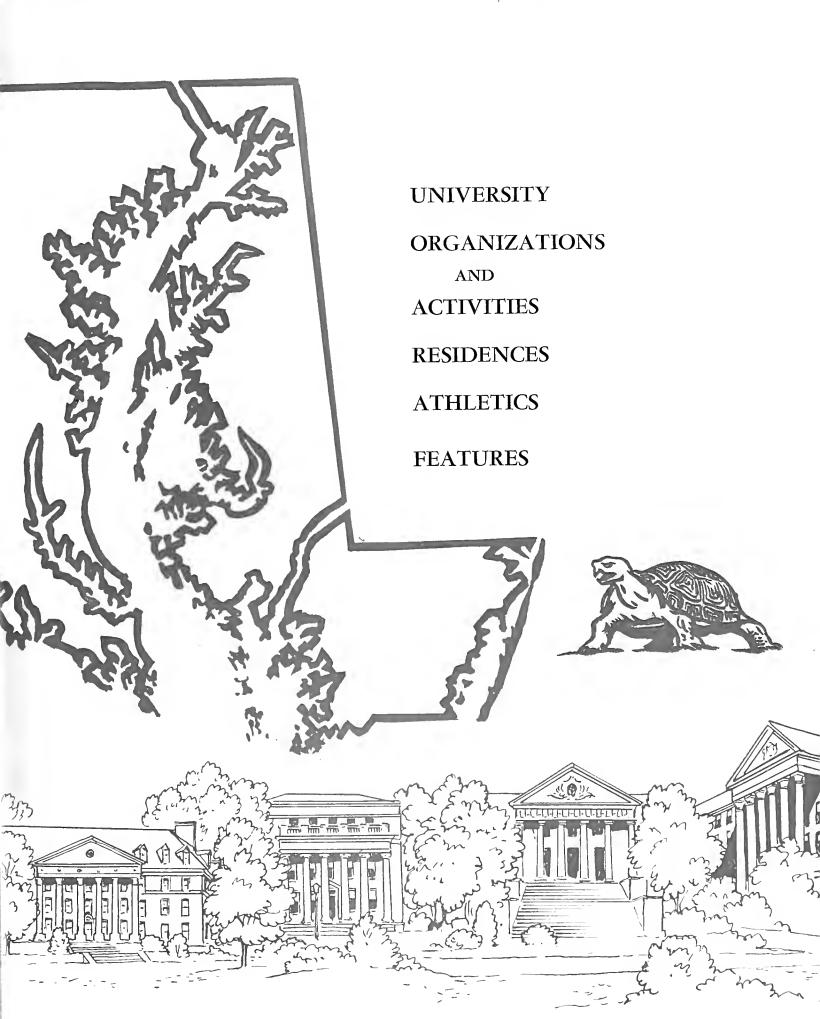

ATION

Reid and Coach H. Burton Shipley. In appreciation of the many services these two men have rendered on behalf of the students for many years, the editors and the student body respectfully dedicate the 1948 Terrapin.

form the undergraduate part of the University. Other integral parts of the University are the Extension Service, allied with the College of Agriculture, and the United States Department of Agriculture, the Graduate School, the associated Government agencies of the Bureau of Mines and Fish and Wild Life Service and the Agricultural Experimental Station. Located in Baltimore are the schools of Law, Medicine, Pharmacy, Dentistry, Nursing and the University Hospital.

Tremendous growth has been evident in all the colleges, schools and allied activities of the University. Wartime research has been continued and increased with the enlargement of the graduate studies. Many outstanding projects are producing noteworthy successes. To cope with the largest graduate enrollment in history the colleges have added a number of new courses, acquired many new faculty members and systematized and improved basic courses to insure a broad general education for all students.

With this increased growth there has been a resulting higher level in academic standards. This possibly may be due partly to the older average age level of the student body, caused by the heavy influx of veteran students. By any yardstick, the University, as a whole, has become big-time and is serving well the people of Maryland, the Nation and the World by offering an education today to meet the many and varied problems of tomorrow.

M

The Alministration Building as viewed from the quadrangle green. This building is the nerte-center for all University organization and activities. In it are located all major administrative offices.

The University

The administration with the college deans and department heads constitute the more stationary part of the University. In years to come, personnel as well as students will change their status quo and have only mental pictures of college life to reminisce upon. Engraved in their memories will be the beautiful campus spotted with temporary buildings, lines for football tickets, registration rituals and tramps through ice and snow to classes.

Student Life Committee

Under the leadership of Professor James H. Reid, the committee served as an advisory body for student affairs and acted as coordinator between the student body and the administration.

This group was responsible for granting charters to the new clubs, including fraternities and sororities, that became active during the year.

Members were: Deans Eppley and Stamp, Colonel Griswold, Miss Preinkert, Professors Allen, Benton, Burnett, Ehrensberger, Harman, Kramer, Lejins, Outhouse, Phillips, Sanford, White and Miss Leslie.

Dean of Men

GEARY F. EPPLEY

Geary F. (Swede) Eppley, next to President Byrd, probably is the busiest man on the campus. In addition to giving general guidance to the students, he supervises student employment, directs all big university events, is faculty advisor on student finance and chairman of the Athletic Board. Dean Eppley earned his B.S. and M.S. degrees at Maryland.

His first position at the University was associate professor of agronomy. He became dean in 1937 and has held this important berth ever since, except for war service in which he rose to a colonelcy.

Dean of Women

MISS ADELE H. STAMP

Dedication of the 1947 May Day to Miss Stamp was a deserved tribute to her for the twenty-five years she has devoted to the welfare of the women students.

Dean Stamp received her B.A. degree at Tulane but came to Maryland for her M.A. She took over the position of dean in 1922. Since then she has seen the women's enrollment grow from a meager twenty-three to more than two thousand.

Among her many achievements was the inauguration of the annual, and now highly traditional, May Day celebration.

College of Agriculture

It has been said that Maryland agriculture more nearly presents a miniature of Agriculture in the United States than that of any other state. This is just another way of saying that the agriculture of the Old Line State is unusually diversified. To serve that widely diversified agriculture to the fullest extent is the aim and function of the College of Agriculture of the University. As now organized, the college includes twelve departments and provides courses that prepare its graduates for all kinds of farm life and lucrative positions in allied industrial fields. Courses are changing constantly to meet new trends. For example, rapid development of the poultry industry in Maryland has resulted in many new and different types of courses. Mechanization of farm and home operations, together with such developments of freezing foods, has required additional and different instruction. A big help to the students are advisory councils composed of leaders in their respective lines in the state.

Work on the compilation of a new World atlas and the introduction of a course in airport management and air transportation were two of the phases of progress in the hustling College, known on the campus as BPA. Dr. John H. Frederick, a national figure in his field, is in charge of the air courses, while Dr. Charles Y. Hu, a Far East specialist, joined the already expert geography staff, led by Dr. Oliver E. Baker, in the production of the new atlas. He will compile the maps of China. An economic survey of Allegany and Cumberland counties by Dr. John H. Cover and a complete study of the Hagerstown city government for the city itself, which provided $10,000 for the purpose, were some of BPA's accomplishments.

College of Arts and Sciences

Covering a wide field of undergraduate and graduate work, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest in the University. From a prewar enrollment of less than 1,000 the college jumped to 2,825 for the 1947-48 term, taxing the classroom facilities and making heavy demands on the teaching force. Courses in journalism were added in connection with the English Department, which now has a faculty of more than seventy, and the Speech and Art departments grew by leaps and bounds. The Art Department now takes an entire floor while the Speech Department shifted to a more spacious location in a new classroom building. It is under the Speech Department that the dramatic clubs function, through instructional courses and assistance by the members of the faculty in staging plays.

A notable award was gained by Dr. Nathan Drake, head of the Chemistry Department. It was the Hillebrand Prize to the member of the American Chemical Society who has had the most outstanding work published within the last three-year period. Dr. Drake's work on antimalarials resulted in the development of "pentaquine", which is unique in that it effects a cure for vivax malaria.

College of Engineering

Activities of the College of Engineering during the year were expanded in many directions as the student body reached a record high of more than 1,600. To care for the increased load, twenty additional faculty members were added. The engineering laboratories were greatly benefitted by the acquisition of considerable war surplus equipment, useful for both teaching and research.

Plans for the new Glenn L. Martin College of Engineering and Aeronautical Sciences were completed and it is expected that construction of the new buildings will get underway soon. These will be located adjacent to the Wind Tunnel, completed this year as the first unit of the new facilities.

Several new research projects were inaugurated, including a study of jet propulsion in connection with the Office of Naval Research, and the erection of a building to house research on soil stabilization conducted in cooperation with the Corps of Engineers of the War Department.

The College also increased its offerings of extension courses, both graduate and undergraduate, working with Federal agencies and state industry.

The history of engineering at the University dates back to 1859 when the catalogue listed a professor in surveying, engineering and construction. In 1863 courses were scheduled in surveying mechanics, hydraulics and civil engineering. However, it was not until 1892 that the University had a formal Department of Engineering and the first building was erected in 1894.

College of Home Economics

Looking forward to its thirtieth birthday next fall, the College of Home Economics is proud of its advancement and achievements. Home Economics began at Maryland in 1918 with fewer than ten students, with one office and a clothing laboratory. Now the College has its own spacious, attractive and well equipped building with 350 students and a faculty of twenty-three. Many new courses were added this year and a Department of Practical Art established for both men and women. A number of men registered with the idea of applying their training to advertising and merchandising. Men also are interested in preparing to be food directors.

Among scholarship funds are $1,500 from the Borden Company to be used for five awards of $300, one each year to the senior student with the highest scholastic average and three for $300 yearly from department stores in Baltimore and Washington for students interested in merchandising as a career.

Military Science, Physical Education and Recreation

Like its name, this new college covers a lot of territory. The axiom, "A sound mind in a sound body", is the theme of the college, which swung forcibly into action with Col. Harland Griswold as acting dean. One of the outstanding features is the opportunity for veterans to major in military science and to offer some of their service activity as transferable credit to the college. The entire physical training program has been placed under the Military Department and is being conducted in close cooperation with, and largely a part of, the R.O.T.C. unit. The general plan of physical training for men involves six major lines. These comprise military drills, general competitive games on an intramural basis, boxing, wrestling, judo and swimming when projected pools become a reality.

Administratively, the physical activities and training for women come under the new college and the program is being expanded generally.

The professional work in physical education is intended to develop leaders to teach and to supervise such work in the public school system, in private schools and in colleges. The demand for teachers is far greater than the supply.

College of Special and Continuation Studies

Under the direction of Dr. George J. Kabat, the College of Special and Continuation Studies is designed for those who have failed to meet the requirements of the University and for those who are unable to attend college on a fulltime basis but who want to continue their studies in the late afternoons and evenings.

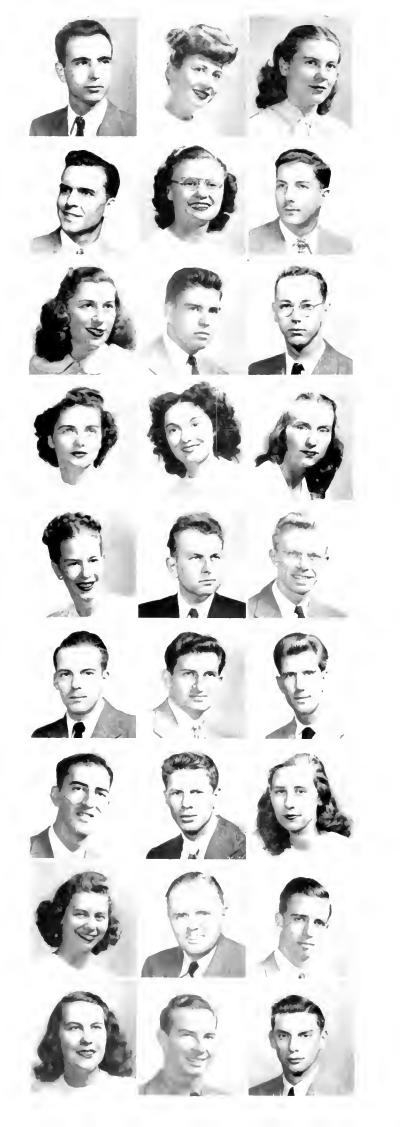

Although the largest branch of the college is in Baltimore, classes also are held in Salisbury, Cambridge, Hagerstown and Cumberland. The regular academic calendar and course credits of the University apply.

Senior Class

In 1944 a shy group of freshmen entered the gates of the University. At that time the Class of '48 began an eventful career. Throughout the next four years the class enrollment grew and the names of many war veterans were added to the list. During these four years the members of this class watched the University in its post-war era. They gladly changed to the semester system, saw returning veterans triple the enrollment and were amazed at the new buildings that sprung up almost overnight. They also turned out en masse to watch improved athletic contests, welcomed new faculty members, new courses, new fraternities and attended more and better social events.

Junior Class

Despite that their enrollment was only 937, members of the Junior Class completed their third successful year in the University, being prominent in many campus activities. Juniors tramped through the mud and slush to work on the college publications, to take part in dramatic presentations and work on the Autumn Carnival claimed the spare time of many. The honoraries, Sigma Alpha Omicron, Pi Delta Epsilon, Mortar Board and Beta Alpha Psi, initiated outstanding juniors. Also in the class were many of the leading football athletes.

The highlight for the "forty-niners", of course, was the Junior Prom on March 5. The junior women presented the annual May Day program in the Spring.

Sophomore Class

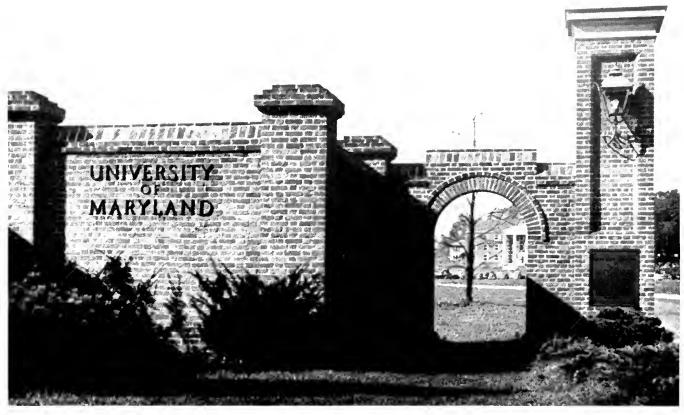

The Class of '50 started the fall term with the largest enrollment of sophomores in the history of the University. Registration merely was routine and not the jam it had been the year before. Lines and more lines, exhilarating football games, Homecoming, dramatic presentations, the Autumn Carnival and bigger and better dances contributed to a fast-moving campus life. The Tug-of-War on Homecoming was lost to the freshmen who used a tree for an anchor man and dunked a baker's dozen of sophs into Paint Branch.

Plans for the future include a medal for the outstanding sophomore and a class constitution.

Class officers were: Johnny Appel, president; George Cheely, vice president; Betty Banks, secretary, and Jim Meyers, treasurer.

Freshman Class

The 1947-1948 Freshman Class left behind a year of outstanding achievement. The election of officers was preceded by a campaign the magnitude of which had not been seen on the campus since before the war. After the smoke of battle has cleared away, the new Executive Council on January 15 called the first of a number of well-attended class meetings. From these plans and projects for the betterment of campus conditions were initiated.

The class sponsored a successful All-Mary-land dance, an open dance and several informal "juke box" affairs.

Officers were: Robert Mann, president; Porter Lee, vice president; Ann Boswell, secretary, and Idalee Gray, treasurer.

Their tasks are of vast importance as it was from the ranks of the R.O.T.C. graduates that the backbone of American officer material was formed in World War II, and it is the source on which the U. A combat veteran of the famous 78th Infantry, "Lightning" Division, and holder of the Bronze Star and Cluster, Col. Saylor, a junior in the College of Business and Public Administration, was military representative to the Student Government Association in 1947. With the aid of Lt. Col. Edward M. Minion of the military staff, he reactivated 1-3, the Scabbard and Blade chapter at the University, the honorary military leadership fraternity, in the spring of 1947.

Cadet Colonel Saylor with the aid of the regular staff army officers and his subordinate cadet officers has built up a fine R.O.T.C. unit that is training well our college men of today for possible military service tomorrow.

Membership in Pershing Rifles is limited to outstanding basic military students based on drill and the rifle manual. It is customary for the unit to serve as honor guard for distinguished visitors and on special occasions.

Organizations and Activities

The active membership and participation in one or more campus organizations and their activities is to many students one of the most important and enjoyable phases of their collegiate life. There are many and varied groups in which any Maryland student may become a member. Some have been in existence for so many years that they have become a part of the Maryland tradition. Others have been organized in recent years and a few are new to the campus this year. Along with all other phases of University life the organizations have profited and grown with the great increase in the student body. A serious, as well as a social trend has developed throughout the organizations and as a result much fine work has been done and a large number of excellent speakers have been brought to the campus by various groups.

Guiding and aiding all campus organizations has been the privilege of the Executive Council of the Student Government Association. This body has worked to bring about close cooperation among the veterans, religious, speech, recreational and specialization clubs, as well as the publications, the honoraries and the drama groups. This year the individuals who make up campus organizations, large and small, have worked hard and have done a fine job toward building friendship and understanding which, after all, is the finest basis for any true growth.

Organizations and Activities

A great part of genuine college life is found in the everyday contacts with student friends. Responsible for this and for the many recreational activities and social educational discussions are the multitude of clubs, honoraries and organizations on the Maryland campus. Each student is able to participate freely in his own particular fields of interest. The publications furnish the records and guidance to school functions and offer opportunities for experience in the journalistic field.

Despite that a record undergraduate enrollment of over 8,000 brought many more activities and increased problems, the Student Government Association came through a difficult year with great credit. There was only one break in the official family in 1947-48, Robert Baker, vice president, graduating in February and Stanley Samuelson being chosen to serve during the second semester.

Sessions of the SGA, which, in addition to its officers, includes thirty others representing all phases of campus life, were held the first and third Tuesday of each school month.

Among its leading contributions was the sponsoring of an award of a bronze loving cup to be presented annually to the outstanding senior man who has contributed most to the welfare of the men students and most nearly typifies the ideal college man in character, achievement and service. It also conducted freshman elections, took a prominent part in S.G.A. affairs, was active in the work of the Student Union Committee, sponsored an assembly during orientation week and was conspicuous in all welfare movements, turning in the largest total in the CARE drive.

An active wing of the Student Government Association, the Women's League has some important functions. Principal of these is the formulation and administration of the rules governing women residents on the campus. Under the guidance of the Dean of Women, the organization revises the regulations each year in an effort to remove any fallacies and to achieve a practical set of rules. The group supports all campus drives, Red Cross and Community Chest, and assisted by the Men's and Women's Choruses, sponsors the Christmas Singing. It also aids the Junior Class with the annual May Day festivities.

This year's group was under the leadership of Connie Kranz, president; Mildred Mooney, vice president; Mary Pat Smith, treasurer; Eleanor Hoppe, secretary.

Association of Veterans

Serving as a medium of expression for student veterans and as a social group for its members in the second year of large student veteran enrollment at the University, the Association of Veterans again had a membership in excess of 1,500. To bring about a higher degree of personal relationship by each member in the administration of group activities, a reorganization of the government resulted in the formation of a governing council composed of the officers of the Association, led by Len Cottrell. Representatives were elected from the permanent dormitories, Veterans' Barracks and local areas. Continued rising costs of living prompted the Association to take an active role in having the GI Bill amended so as to increase subsistence payments.

A helpful factor was the non-profit small loan plan that was initiated to assist members when checks were overdue.

Daydodger's Club

With arranging of rides for the commuters as its first task, the club under the leadership of Eleanor Parker, president; Hugh Gouldman, vice president; and Doris Crewe, secretary, later held bi-monthly meetings with pleasing results. Through the efforts of Mary McClenon, publicity chairman, and Edwin Shotzberger, membership chairman, the club grew to be one of the largest on campus.

Donald Shenk, social chairman, arranged an open house after the Delaware football game, a hayride to Great Falls, skating parties and an all-Maryland dance.

International Relations Club

With the increasing importance of understanding between nations in the world today, the International Relations Club has found a widening scope for its activities. The International Relations Club pursued a program of debates and discussions on world problems and obtained speakers from embassies, political groups, and news organizations. Representatives to conferences at neighboring colleges brought back encouraging reports of the work these groups are doing.

The Red Cross Club is active in many ways on the Maryland campus. Through this unit, Christmas gifts were collected for disabled veterans in nearby hospitals and yuletide decorations were provided for hospital wards. In March the Club worked with the National

Red Cross in the annual fund drive. In addition, the club contacted campus sororities and dormitories and arranged for volunteer units of girls to visit the Bethesda Naval and Walter Reed hospitals weekly throughout the year.

Assisting Chairman Eleanor Hoppe were George Cheely, first vice chairman; Ruth Talbot, second vice chairman, and Betty Compton, secretary-treasurer.

Human Relations

The Human Relations Club was organized for Nursery School majors to develop insight into individual and group relations. The programs involving boy-girl relationships, marriage problems, child-parent relationships and child development proved to be interesting and informative. Sally Davis, Nancy Clapp, and Betty Janney, the officers, were given much help by Prof. Edna McNaughton, faculty advisor.

Sociology Club

The Sociology Club strived to promote a sociological point of view among the students interested in this subject, to provide opportunity for discussion, and to present outstanding speakers in sociology and related fields. As their project for the year, the club took a survey of freshman students in an effort to determine the significant differences in awareness of social issues in the class.

Officers were: Mildred Manning, Walter Blake, Amy Cantwell and Eleanor Higgons. Dr. Peter J. Lijins was faculty advisor.

Psychology Club

The Psychology Club was formed in 1943 for the purpose of making practical application of psychological principles, discussing present day psychological problems and providing opportunity to hear lectures by prominent persons in the field. The club is composed mainly of juniors and seniors majoring in psychology. Students in fields pertaining to psychology hold associate memberships.

German Club

The German Club has become one of the most popular language clubs on campus, and its 1947-48 meetings were social mixers for all German students. The club aimed to make the meetings more entertaining by providing able and interesting guest speakers, teaching the members German songs and introducing German movies. With its fine spirit of fellowship and support of student interest in the language, the club grew appreciably during the year.

The club had capable direction by Donal Turkal, president; Naomi Ecker, vice president; Mary Lou Berger, secretary-treasurer, and Dr. Ludwig Hammerschlag, newly appointed faculty advisor.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club enjoyed a very successful year under the guidance of Faculty Advisor Mrs. Graciela Nemes of the Foreign Language Department. This group was organized to acquaint American students with the language and culture of Latin America, and to aid in the adaption of South of the Border Students to the ways of American life. Meetings were held twice a month in the Student Lounge. Featured were lectures and moving pictures of Latin America. Informal dances and picnics filled in after-meeting hours. Sylvia Garcia and Martin McCleary held the offices of president and vice president, respectively.

French Club

A banquet at the Le Napoleon restaurant and La Soiree Musicale, presented by the club's musical talent, were features of the French Club events during the year. Small impromptu plays also were given at meetings and a picnic was held at Greenbelt.

Officers were: Maurice Plasse, president; Paul Norfolk, vice president, and Betty Troeger, secretary.

Chinese Students Club

Organized in the fall of 1947, the Chinese Students Club aims to bring together all those of that nationality on the campus. Meetings, which featured speakers and discussion periods, were held in the Arts and Science Building. In addition to get-togethers with Chinese youth organizations of Washington and Baltimore, the club plans to hold an annual dance.

Meetings of the American Society of Civil Engineers provided the opportunity for the making of professional contacts. The society also supplemented class and laboratory work with movies, talks and inspection trips. Among trips taken were to Dalecarlia Reservoir and to bridges and other projects in course of construction in the Washington area.

Ray Hollingsworth was president and James Forsyth was vice president; Robert Conlyn, secretary; and John Hobbs, treasurer.

Student Affiliates of American Chemical Society

The Maryland chapter of the Student Affiliates of American Chemical Society was organized in March, 1945. The basic purpose of the organization is to make it possible for students on the campus who are interested in chemistry and its related fields to become acquainted with one another and to further their knowledge of chemistry. Chemistry majors, chemistry minors, and chemical engineers are eligible for membership.

Under the leadership of President Shirley Hodgson and the able advisorship of Dr. G. Forrest Woods, the club met at least once a month and presented speakers and films on various chemical and technical subjects.

The public was invited to the meetings which featured guest speakers.

Propeller Club

The Propeller Club, under the leadership of President Bob Harleston and Dr. John Frederick, faculty advisor, succeeded in bringing about a closer relation of the students in the transportation and foreign trade field with working firms. Speakers, who told of present and future opportunities, were: H. Franklin Sheeley, vice president of Moore McCormack Lines, Jackson Darneille, vice president of Maryland Trust Co., and Marshall B. Dierson, traffic representative of the port of Baltimore.

Pre-Theological Club

Under the direction of President Ken Spilman, Wednesday morning devotions for students were held in the Dean of Women's Building. Field trips also were taken to Virginia Seminary in Alexandria and Howard University in Washington. In February, the members were guests of the Pre-Ministerial Group at Western Maryland College.

Religious Philosophy

To fulfill the need for a philosophical organization on the Maryland campus, a number of Unitarians formed the Study Group of Religious Philosophy in 1946. Members study the origin and history of various beliefs, compare the major religions and discuss personal philosophy and religion.

Publications Board

The Publications Board is appointed by Dr. Byrd to supervise and direct the student publications. With Dr. Jack Y. Bryan as chairman, the Board consisted of Prof. James H. Reid, Mr. William Hottel and Miss Adele Stamp. The individual publications were represented by their respective editors: Diamondback, Ethel Jongeneel and Weems Hawkins; Terrapin, Jack Clark; Old Line, Dee Speed and Shelly Akers, and Pi Delt, Norm Katz. The meetings of this Board throughout the course of the year directed the procedures and policies of the Maryland student publications. The day to day counsel and assistance rendered to all of the publications by Advisor Bill Hottel was much appreciated by all the staff members.

Pi Delta Epsilon

Founded at Syracuse University in 1909, Pi Delta Epsilon was established at Maryland in 1930. Membership is open to those students who have held a major position on one of the University's student publications for at least one semester or those who have performed one year's outstanding service. The tradition of presenting a cup to the outstanding Freshman journalist, in his Sophomore year, was established this spring.

The 1948 Terrapin

With Jack Clark in the Editor's position, work on the 1948 Terrapin began early last year. Johnny Miller handled the funds in his capacity as Business Manager, while Terry Speaker and Fred De Marr, Associate Editor and Managing Editor respectively, straightened out snags encountered in planning and assembling the book. The layouts were produced by Frank Masterson. The difficult assignment of picturing an active campus was covered by Al Danegger, George Sing, Dick Kirk and Jonas Rappeport, and the pictures were assimilated into the book by Phil Bettendorf. Bill Groome brought forth some unusual ideas for the sports section. The hectic task of assembling people for group pictures was accomplished by Pat Reed, Candy Smith and Ginie Bennett Waldo Burnside and his staff mailed the towering stacks of Terrapins to 1947 graduates.

Diamondback

For the first time in its twenty-eight years of existence the Diamondback this past year expanded its weekly production to encompass two editions per week, one appearing on Tuesday and the other on Friday. During the first semester the paper was edited by Ethel Jongeneel and following her, in February, Weems Hawkins stepped up to occupy the leading role. The girls were aided by Business Managers Carol Haase and Edgar Moore; Managing Editors Mark Coplin and Allen Bowers; News Editors George Cheely, Juhanne Holm and Harrison P. Hagemeyer. Dr. Bryan advised on pertinent questions and aided the course of newspaper events. Harvey Libowitz and his energetic staff directed circulation of the paper.

Blazing editorials by Lou Eisenhauer, biting sarcasm of "The Whip" by Dick Dunlap, sports headlines and thrills from eyewitness Smokey Pierce, a spot of poetry by Ginie Bennett, sparks of wit from the pens of Mollee Copple, Don Mortimer and B. J. Audish, words of wisdom from Jerry Epter, helpful and worthy contributions by the many lesser known workers and interesting photos by Jonas Rappeport, Dick Kirk and George Sing. That's the 1947-48 Diamondback in a nutshell!

Old Line

The gales of laughter emanating from the Old Line office each day were proof that the staff of the University's literary and humor magazine appreciated their own wit. And the rest of the school shared their enjoyment. Led by first semester Editor Dee Speed and her successor Shelly Akers, ably assisted by Associate Editor White Sonner and Managing Editor Art Cosing, the magazine added periodical enlivement to the campus routine. Short stories, plays, satire, poetry, jokes and cartoons filled its pages. These were the products of the pens of such literary notables as Dee Speed, Lou Eisenhauer, Dick Carter, Shelly Akers, Don Mortimer, and White Sonner. Covers by Al Danegger and Warren Kubler enticed the reader to survey the inner contents where cartoons by Bob Troll and story illustrations by Al Cohen colored the pages. Occasional drawings and articles flowed from the pen of Art Cosing. The spot interviews of campus personages continued to delight the readers. One of the most interesting and unusual issues was the parody on Time Magazine which appeared early in 1947 and received plaudits from all who read it. Propelled by this past year's success, Old Line is stretching toward the top of the college field.

"M" Book

1947 saw the "new look" come into vogue and the "new look" dominated the 1947-48 M Book. Art Cosing was commissioned to create a new cover design, which resulted in a black, leatherbound book with the state seal inserted into the design.

Actual work started on the M Book in late April, 1947. Staff members were recruited by Editor Norm Katz and Associate Editor Hank Saylor. Smokey Pierce compiled the sports section, while George Sing provided the photographs. Financial duties were assumed by Business Manager Clyde Houle. Dick Dunlap gathered material on the SGA Constitution, Connie Kranz on the Women's League and Weems Hawkins on campus sororities. George Cheely prepared the fraternity section, Julianne Holm and Gene Clagett the honoraries, B. J. Audish the clubs and Lou Eisenhauer prepared the Foreword and edited the History of the University.

Membership in ODK, national honorary leadership fraternity, is one of the highest attainments possible for a male student. Qualifications are character, scholarship, service, leadership and fellowship in campus life. It is necessary to attain distinction in one of five phases of college endeavor—speech, music, or dramatics, scholarship, athletics, social or religious affairs or publications.

New members during 1947-48 were Victor Turyn and Edward Rieder, athletics; Sheldon Akers and Philip Glazer, publications, and Jerome Maxwell, scholarship.

University Theatre

The University Theatre is composed of faculty members of the Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts and the Executive Council of the Footlight Club, the student drama organization. The Theatre staff includes Dr. Ray Ehrensberger, chairman, Dr. Charles Niemever, Mr. Lyle Mayer and Mr. Orville Larson.

In the spring of 1947, the University Theatre presented the Elizabethan classic, Volpone, written by Ben Johnson. Long remembered by campus theatre-goers, it gained for Maryland national recognition among collegiate drama groups. Volpone was adapted and directed expertly by Mr. Mayer. Ken Calfee as Volpone, Bernard Shur as Mosca, and John Stuntz as Corbaccio, ably headed a superlative cast of 14.

Arsenic and Old Lace

The first production of the University Theatre's 1947-48 season was the Broadway comedy hit "Arsenic and Old Lace" by Joseph Kesselring. Playing to full houses for eleven nights, "Arsenic" maintained the standard of the University Theatre under Mr. Mayer's direction and Mr. Larson's stage designing. Abbey and Martha Brewster were cleverly portrayed by Lorraine Warwick and Erlene Hite and Dick Seltzer starred as Teddy.

Elizabeth the Queen

For its second major production of the year, the University Theatre presented Maxwell Anderson's historical drama, Elizabeth the Queen for a week in December to packed houses. The script was adapted and directed by Dr. Niemeyer, Again Mr. Larson produced tive excellent settings. Jacqueline Hastings magnificently portrayed the famous Queen of England while Ken Calfee was outstanding as Lord Essex. The supporting cast also gave top performances. Allen Bowers, student technical director for the past year, again did a fine job.

Collegiate Players

Pi Delta Epsilon, of the University of Wisconsin and the Associated University Players of the University of Illinois merged in June, 1922, to form The National Collegiate Players. To date this organization has 40 chapters. The purpose of the National Collegiate Players chapter of Maryland is to recognize and encourage all phases of dramatic endeavor, as well as to support every movement for the advancement of dramatics at the university.

When campus school spirit needs a musical shot in the arm, this group comes forth with an energetic "wine, women, and song." For the Student Musical Activities Committee supplies a colorfully-attired band for Maryland football and basketball games and boxing matches, lovely warbler-voiced co-eds for students' concerts, glee clubs to inspire beery, collegiate melodies and an orchestra for dances and variety shows. Aside from coordinating the various campus musical clubs and apportioning funds for their expenses in 1947-48, the committee planned and presented several fine musical productions.

Clef and Key

Through the ardent efforts of its officers—Carl Soine, president; John Shields, vice president; Doris Crewe, secretary; John Cooley, treasurer, and Ed Goldsmith, publicity director, 1947-48 was an important year for Clef and Key. Because of an important revision of the constitution this year, the club now is known as the Clef and Key Association of the University of Maryland.

With the slogan "Make it 100", the Band got off to a rousing start, barely missing their goal with 97. Under the direction of Mr. Sykora and the assistance of Don Mortimer, the Band served as a motivating force for all pre-game rallies and spearheaded a spirited student body in cheering at all big events throughout the winter sports season. It gave one of its finest performances at the Duke football game at Durham.

Student Orchestra

The Student Orchestra made a fresh start this year under the stimulating leadership of Mr. Frank Sykora and orchestra president, Joe Keplinger. The scanning of the library and the discovery of music that had long lain dormant, resulted in new enthusiasm. Playing at all the usual functions, this group kept up with its newly adopted expansion program by appearing in the Autumn Carnival. The spring concert was a highlight.

Iwice a week, from among 8,300 students, sixty men were drawn as if by magic to Maryland's modest-looking Music Building. Hopefully "Doc" Randall, with Charles Haslip, accompanist, entered and spoke a few words. Then they sang they sang like starved men whose only food was music. Dr. Randall added the spices. New Yorkers, Constitution Hall habitues, real estate operators, bankers, Autumn Carnival first nighters, etc. can attest to fine vocalizing by the Glee Clubbers in 1947-48.

Women's Chorus

The largest Women's Chorus in the history of the university, composed of 110 Co-eds, climaxed an eventful year when, in December, the girls, along with the Men's Glee Club, were part of a 500-voice chorus which sang the Halleluiah chorus from the Messiah in Constitution Hall in Washington. In addition, the girls, under the direction of Dr. Randall, with Mrs. Virginia Burton as accompanist, traveled to Forest Glen, Md., to present a Christmas program for convalescent soldiers, sang before the thousands of students at the Homecoming football game and took part in the ceremonies at the Christmas tree lighting.

Practice was held once a week for the 35 members in baton twirling, gymnastics, adagio, ballroom dance numbers, pyramics, handbalancing, comedy and other stunts.

The Rossborough Club, one of Maryland's oldest and finest traditions, has as its objective the planning of the "best" dances of the year. Name bands generally are sought and good bands always obtained. The club ended a successful season with Harry James, attracting a throng from campus and elsewhere. It was the most successful dance of the year even if it was too crowded.

Residences

The Many and varied residences that accommodate hundreds of students were designed, built and are maintained to take the place of home during the college years. This year construction work has been progressing rapidly to increase facilities that will enable more people to live on the campus. Several dormitory units in the Southern Colonial style of architecture were completed and have been occupied by returning students. In cooperation with the Federal Government, the University has completed a number of BOQ units for men veterans and many family units to house the married vets.

More than thirty sororities and fraternities have imposing residences which are located near the campus. This year with increased memberships they have been filled to capacity. Several of the Greek groups which did not have houses were able to obtain residences in the College Park community. Others have had temporary quarters constructed by the University.

Many students have obtained rooms from residents of nearby communities. Hundreds of other students have day-dodged daily from their homes nearby and from Baltimore and Washington. A fine sense of cooperation has prevailed among the entire student body in meeting the housing emergency, many have doubled-up to enable another to get a college education.

It seems as though only yesterday there were but four dormitory residences on the Maryland campus. These were Calvert and Sylvester for men and the beautiful residences for women, Anne Arundel and Margaret Brent. With those four dormitories as a nucleus, lovely residence quadrangles have been constructed of brick in the Southern Colonial style with Georgian trim. Several of these stately buildings have been completed this year and others are under construction. When these units are finished the impressive residence groups will stand out as edifices of true material growth.

Pan-Hellenic Council

During the past year the Pan-Hellenic Council took great strides toward the cementing of sorority relationships. New plans for parties were adopted which will dispense with the previous confusion of rush week. In addition to this the system was further simplified by the use of guides to assist the rushees on the first day of open house teas. The old inadequate quota of 55 was changed to 65 to allow for the increased enrollment.

The first social event of the year sponsored by the group was the pledge dance on October 18. As Tiny Meeker's orchestra played each sorority's song, one of its pledges walked through an archway of flowers and was presented to the assembled group. The dance was the first annual affair. Junior Pan-Hel sponsored an all pledge party in January.

Officers of Pan-Hel for 1947-48 were: Frances Wragg, president; Gloria Schreter, vice president; Patricia Patterson, treasurer; Dorothy Mullen, secretary.

Rushing was successful for the AEPhi's, and nothing could dampen their determination to carry out a social program of equal merit. In October, three hundred guests enjoyed an AEPhi open house. At their yearly Pledge Dance, Pauline Ruthenberg was chosen Queen.

Founders Day, equally successful, was festively closed by an evening mixer with TEP fraternity.

Social highlights were not to overshadow other activities. Gloria Schreter proved a capable vice president of Pan-Hel, while Shirley Balser contributed artistically to the Old Line.

Alpha Zi Chapter Founded at Syracuse University in 1904-Established at Maryland in 1947. Last December, Alpha Zi Chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta, colonized in the spring of '47, was installed on campus. At initiation ceremonies, Brent, Flegless, Fields, Fleming, Henry, Howle, Miller and Moore were installed as charter members. Members of Maryland's newest sorority already are well known on campus. Miller served as house manager for three stage productions and worked diligently as Drama Editor of the Terrapin. Hogin had the lead in "Ernest." Blond Lillian Howle graced the cover of the Christmas issue of the Old Line.

Interfraternity Council

Charged with the important task of maintaining a harmonious relationship between the University and fraternities, the Interfraternity Council, under the capable leadership of President Josh Miller, tactfully handled all that entered that category. Its accomplishments during the past year were varied and many. The Interfraternity Council constitution was revised, giving to the Council a much broader scope and power and affording complete representation.

In the interest of its member fraternities the Council was instrumental in obtaining a tract of land, granted by the University, for fraternity building programs. A representative also was sent to the National Interfraternity Conference in New York.

By way of charitable undertakings, the Council adopted a Dutch war orphan for a year. A perfect social season was realized through the Interfraternity Ball on February 3rd at the Statler Hotel in Washington. Music was furnished by Claude Thornhill, the "Snowfall Man."

In September, the Knights embarked on a traditionally fine social and athletic program. Upholding its position as a formidable power in lacrosse, KA sent a dozen or more members to vie for positions in the old Indian stick sport. Rogers and Gauvin upheld KA's name on the boxing team, while Foster wrestled. Cochrane was Junior Class president; Wilson, vice president of the Interfraternity Council; McDonald, Grassmuck, Miller and Lawrence on publications.

Tom Orpwood directed another successful Kappa Alpha Cotton-Picker's Minstrel Show.

K2K Founded at Maryland in 1947. Since being organized in February, 1947, Kappa Sigma Kappa has made great strides.

A successful social season included desserts, picnics and dances, Spot-lighted was the Pre-Exam Dance. The brothers have not limited their field of activity. Smoky Pierce was DBK sports editor and Don Bolt, president of the Black and Gold Squadron of AFA.

With such a gratifying start and with plans being laid to affiliate with a National, the fraternity is confident that it will soon rank as one of the campus leaders.

Epsilon Pi Chapter Founded at Boston University in 1909 Established at Maryland in 1932.

The opening of classes last fall found fifty active members of Lambda Chi treading the paths of the Maryland campus. Many of the brothers were busy in a well-rounded activity program. Charley Thompson served as vice president of the Art Club; Pete Sante, president of the Newman Club; and Campbell and Chance, were members of the freshman scholastic honorary. Tom Raimondi again held down his spot on the varsity wrestling team.

Support by the alumni and their National assured the fraternity a new home in the near future.

Political big-wigs were Billy Lewin, sergeant-at-arms of the Sophomore Class and Davis, sergeant-at-arms of the Senior Class. Other "wheels" were Coplin, editor, Tuesday edition of the DBK; Cohen, art editor Old Line, Holofcener, president Hillel Foundation, and Woodrow, treasurer, Rossborough Club.

Beta Beta Chapter - Founded at Illinois Wesleyan University in 1899 - Established at Maryland in 1947.

Soon after registration in the fall, TKE gained "full steam" on its first real year at Maryland.

Athletically, the Tekes made a name for themselves by reaching the soft ball semifinals and rolling to the bowling finals. Neviaser, Sprague, and Rennard were on the varsity baseball squad.

Activity men included Adair as vice president of the Intra-mural Council, Moore, German Club president. Presidency of the Riding Club remained in the TKE's hands when Schalfer turned the reins over to Rang. The Tekes also copped the Interfrat scholarship cup.

Alpha Psi Chapter—Founded at Norwich University in 1848— Established at Maryland in 1929. Theta Chi emphasized activities and sports. Well known on campus were "Hank" Saylor, president of Men's League and of Scabbard and Blade, and Shelly Akers, associate editor and later editor of the Old Line. Displaying their talents on the gridiron were Kinney, who made the Southern Conference second team at center, and seven others. In the Spring sports, Grogan played tennis; Brown, lacrosse; and Keene and Hughes, baseball.

In February, the Theta Chi's held their annual Dream Girl Dance, which was climaxed by selection of the "Dream Girl of Theta Chi".

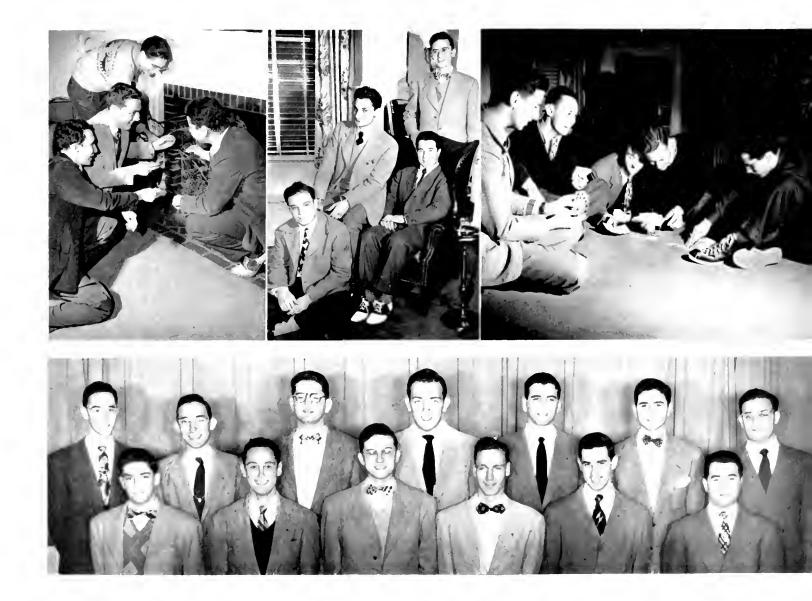

Beta Zeta Chapter Founded at Columbia University in 1894 Established at Maryland in 1948. In the field of make believe Philip Rosenberg played the part of Sir Roger Bacon in the University theatre's "Elizabeth the Queen". For the final performance of the University theatre's production of "Arsenic and Old Lace" the members volunteered for the parts of the corpses. James Smulian was chairman of the Sophomore Class social committee, while Stanley Felenbaum was assistant manager of the football team.

The Beta Tau's held their Thanksgiving Dance at the Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore.

Athletics

REAT STEPS forward in the field of athletics were made during the year.

The entire student body, the faculty and the alumni all caught the spirit of growth and are awaiting a larger football stadium, swimming pools and added recreational facilities. To care for this increased athletic program, the Administration set up a department of Physical Education in the College of Military Science and Tactics. Work has started on the pretentious stadium which will provide abundant parking facilities. Plans also have been completed for the swimming pools.

To provide recreation for all a larger class and extra-curricula intramural program has been developed. This year many teams participated under the guidance and supervision of the Physical Education staff. The varsity teams are returning to and in some cases surpassing their pre-war status. The football squad gained national recognition by its play against Georgia in the Gator Bowl at Jackson-ville, the boxers had a fine season, the cross country squad won the Southern Conference crown and the soccer eleven was unbeaten.

This outstanding play on the part of the teams has been aided by the increased turnouts and support by the student body. Maryland rapidly is becoming a national and sectional leader in intercollegiate athletics.

FOOTBALL 1948 SEASON

NE of the sorest aches in the side of Maryland alumni, faculty, students, and followers, until this season, was football. While other schools with half the enrollment of the University of Maryland boasted about their varsity elevens, Maryland people found it difficult to salvage a bit of condolence. Blame was thrown everywhere; the school administration got it, the alumni got it, so did the picturesque array of coaches who came and went, and so did the players. And then one lovely February day a gentleman by the name of Tatum came out of the West and found a place in the hearts of all of us.

He assembled, using his own experience as a guide, a well-balanced coaching staff and a trainer and went to work. For the first time in years the players got into condition and obeyed strict training rules. The fighting spirit suddenly reappeared and Maryland had a football team.

Athletic Board

Maryland's Athletic Board is composed of all faculty members with four being former Old Line sports stars. They are Col. Geary F. Eppley, '20, dean of men and director of student welfare; Dr. Ernest N. Cory, '09, State entomologist; Dr. William B. Kemp, '12, director of the Experiment Station, and Dr. William C. Supplee, '26, associate professor, State Inspection and Regulatory Service. Dr. Harland C. Griswold, acting dean of the Department of Military Science and Tactics, completes the Board.

Eppley, Cory, Kemp and Supplee all were football and track aces and the last named also was a basketball star. Cory was 1908 grid captain and Kemp led the 1911 eleven.

Walter Driskill

Walter Driskill, Colorado '36, a line star while at his alma mater, doubled in brass for the Terps as athletic director and assistant grid coach. This kept him on the move night and day, but didn't impair his efficiency in either job. Like Tatum, he had coached successfully before he came from Oklahoma to Maryland.

James M. Big Jim) Tatum, North Carolina '35 and a great Tar Heel tackle, who came to Maryland with a fine coaching record and who amazingly pulled the Terps out of the doldrums in his first year, has reached an agreement with President Byrd to stay at least five years longer.

Jim Totum

Vic Turyn

Lu Gambino

Vernon Seibert

Jim Tatum and Walter Driskill, leaders in Maryland's athletic set-up, got plenty of help and cooperation from their aides and a happy family of football players in compiling their edifying 1947 gridiron record.

George Barclay, Flucie Stewart, Jim Meade, Houston Elder, Al Woods and Bill Meek, assistant coaches and scouts, played telling supporting roles in the march of the Terps, who used the tricky split T to compile 3,140 yards in their 10 regular season games and played brilliant on defense. It was a fine display of all-around teamwork by coaches and players that told.

fn totaling the vast amount of yardage, an average of 314 per game, the Terps raced

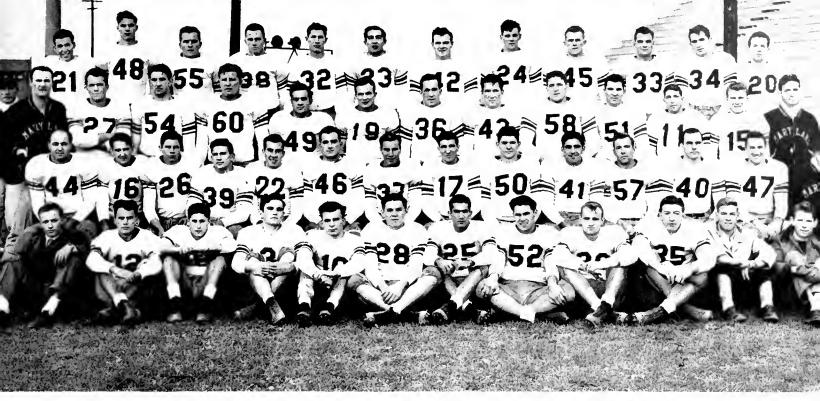

2,214 yards on the ground and made 926 through the air with Quarterbacks Vic Turyn and Joe Tucker doing practically all of the tossing.

Lu Gambino, all-Southern back who gained Nation-wide fame, scored 16 touchdowns and stepped 952 yards to pace the running attack, with Turyn next with 797. Francis Evans, with 196 yards; Elmer Wingate, with 145, and Fred Davis, with 133, topped the pass snatchers.

Tucker, Jim LaRue and John Idzik were other big cogs in the running attack, as was Harry Bonk, whose blocking also was terrific. Center Gene Kinney, a junior, was the steadying influence in the forward wall.

Crowd of 21,000 Sits in on Whirlwind Finish to Third Annual Post-Season Classic Here.

Picked on its enviable season's record of seven wins, a tie and two defeats for the Gator Bowl game against Georgia at Jacksonville, Fla., on New Years Day, Maryland's tricky T football team almost scored a stunning upset but wound up in a 20-20 deadlock. Rated underdogs by anywhere from seven to 14 points, the Terps went into a 20-7 third period lead only to have the Bulldogs score twice in the last quarter and then land on the 4-yard line as the thrilling battle ended with the more than 20,000 excited fans on their feet.

Lu Gambino, who made all of Maryland's three touchdowns, climaxed a 75-yard march by streaking 35 yards in the second period for the only first-half score. Then after Georgia traveled 87 yards to tie it up at the outset of the third quarter, the Terps crossed the goal twice to gain what appeared to be a safe lead. First they drove 80 yards and quickly added the third touchdown when McHugh recovered a fumble on the 40. After two running plays, John Baroni passed to Gambino for the marker. McHugh added the extra point after the first and third scores.

Gambino, with Bonk blocking, is off again with most of the Georgia team in pursuit. This flashy advance brought the ball to the Bulldogs' three yard line and Lu scored a couple plays later

Palmer winning Conference crown in record time of 21.22 on 4.1 mile course at N, C, State College

The Terp cross country team, under the guidance of Jim Kehoe, made a clean sweep last fall, capturing the Southern Conference title after easily annexing five dual meets. Led by Bob Palmer, undefeated freshman ace, who set a new conference record of 21 minutes and 22 seconds for the 4.1 mile course at Raleigh, N. C., Maryland carried off the crown with North Carolina, defending champion, in seventh place.

Maryland placed seven men in the first 13, Jimmy Umbarger running next to Palmer, with Gene Greer, Howard Umberger and Bob Judy counting the Terps other points by tying for sixth, seventh and eighth, respectively. Pete Hambleton was eleventh and Joe Grimaldi was thirteenth to almost make it a procession.

This gave the Terps the amazingly low total for a title meet of 24 points, with Virginia Tech in second place with 73 and Duke third with 87.

Royal was willing to play Springfield College, the only other undefeated team in the country, but a game could not be arranged. In addition to the Temple tilt, his charges took the measure of Navy B team, 4-1; whipped Virginia 3-0, Johns Hopkins, 4-0, Western Maryland, 4-1, and Salisbury Teachers, 5-1.

WRESTLING

Coach Sully Krouse's matmen did well to break even in ten dual matches. Jim Scott, 145, and Bob Marsheck, ace at 165 or 175, set the pace, each winning nine of his contests. Eddie Gurny, 135, who won eight was next in line.

When this was written on March 8, Maryland's amazing collegiate championship rifle team had run its string of victories to 173, including all sorts of matches. Led by Arthur Cook, national junior champion, who seldom falls below 290 out of a possible 300 and who usually exceeds that figure, the Terps thrust aside all opposition, most of the time by wide margins. Numbered among the 1948 victims were both Army and Navy, always National leaders, on their home ranges, the Old Liners compiling an unusual score of 1,418 at Annapolis.

Women's Sports

The surprise of an unusually active season in women's sports came when the Kappa Delta second team spoiled an unblemished record of the Kappa Delta first outfit to carry off top honors in the bowling tourney. These teams previously had scored over other sorority competition.

Two undefeated teams clashed in the final contest at basketball, with the Daydodgers conquering Margaret Brent Hall for the championship. The hockey crown went to Margaret Brent, with Gamma Phi Beta being the runner-up.

Tournaments in volley ball, tennis and softball remained to be played when the Terrapin deadline arrived.

TRACK

Jim Kehoe of Belair, Md., who had such an illustrous career as a member of the track team from 1938 through 1940, is matching his great running ability as a coach. Aided by Maynard (Pat) Redd, member of the 1928 and 1932 Olympic teams, who coached the field events men, Kehoe led his charges to victories in four of five dual meets, one triumph over Virginia. The Terps also easily won the District AAU crown. Hurdler Mario Salvanelli, Ike Eichhorn, who won the Southern Conference javelin crown; Eddie Matthews, 220 and 440-vard ace, and Howard Gugel, sprinter, were the top performers. Salvanelli led the scoring with 5212 points, just two more than Matthews.

Tom Devlin, quarter and half miler, and Sterling Kehoe, brother of the coach, were the only two to be lost by graduation.

BASEBALL

Lacking batting strength in a rebuilding season, the baseball team, with H. Burton Shipley at the helm for the twenty-fourth consecutive year, just missed a .500 mark, winning 10 and losing 11 games. A few timely hits would have added several triumphs. Four wins were in the Southern Conference, earning a tie for fourth place as Clemson romped off with the title. Dartmouth, Yale, and West Virginia were among the nines beaten.

Nick Panella, with four wins, set the pace for the pitchers, and Al Tuminski, with a .371 average, and Bob Keene, pitcher-first baseman, with .367 were the top hitters.

Harold Evans, a nifty outfielder, was the only loss of note from the 1947 squad.

Sports Publicity Director

Composed of varsity and junior managers and the Sports Editor of the Diamondback, the purpose of the Latch Key is to promote greater harmony among the various Terp squads and to supervise the care of visiting teams. Officers were: Norman Katz, president; Jimmy Hoffman, secretary-treasurer.

Carroll, a graduate of St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia, came to Maryland last summer after serving four years in the Marines. While in the Marines, after his return from overseas, he was sports editor of the Camp Lejeune Globe and later editor of the USMC magazine in Washington. He also did publicity for his alma mater and some newspaper work.

Features

During the course of every college year at Maryland there are happenings and events which are different from those of any previous years. One of the most stirring interruptions to campus life this year was the stealing of Testudo the Terp from his pedestal in front of Ritchie Coliseum by Johns Hopkins University students. This came as a foremath to the traditional lacrosse game between the old rivals. As usual, Homecoming was an outstanding success. This was followed by the lovely Autumn Carnival Pageant.

Every weekend throughout the entire college year the clubs, Greek-houses, dormitories and classes sponsored parties, dances, picnics and other entertainment features. With the return of many old groups and the advent of new ones this year, there has been a tremendous growth in the number and presentation of extra-curricula activities. This has been a crowded year at Maryland. It also has been a very enjoyable one.

As never before the spirit of true growth has entered into the life of the entire student body and the faculty and this spirit is making Maryland a great state university.

HOMECOMING

It was on a lovely autumn day in November that the West Virginia Mountaineers, toting their long Tom's, little brown jugs and an oblong pigskin invaded the Maryland campus. The reception which they received was something they will not soon forget. Those visitors to Maryland were in fine spirits, having behind them an excellent record of conquests over four strong elevens. On this lovely morn they were rated as three touchdown favorites over (Big Jim) Tatum's Terrapins. From here on the story of glory is that of Maryland.

Down from the hills of Western Maryland, up from the Eastern Shore and from every hamlet and town in the state, they moved on College Park. The unsuspecting Mountaineers were swamped. In their plans of strategy against the Maryland eleven they had failed to take into account this tremendous outburst of school spirit and team backing. The day was Homecoming, nineteen hundred and fortyseven. Every Marylander's hope and dream was overwhelmingly fulfilled as the Terrapins trounced the visitors, 27 to 0.

After the game the thousands of faculty, alumni, visitors, friends and students joined in open-house parties, informal gatherings and a dance in the Armory which lasted till midnight. The end of another great Homecoming Day at Maryland.

Testudo takes another jount, this time to the Hopkins' campus

Testudo Travels Again

Traveling is nothing new for Testudo, the 500-pound indestructible Terp mascot and his throne in front of Ritchie Coliseum has been vacated at intervals for years, but he never took a hotter trip than the one he made to Baltimore last spring as a prelude to the Hopkins-Maryland lacrosse game at College Park. Testudo really stirred up hornet nests on both campuses that brought shaved heads, skinned shins, plenty of cuts and bruises and an overnight stay in jail for a number of the feuders. It was a show really worth watching, especially the Terps' midnight invasion of Jayland that had most of the residents of the neighborhood viewing the spectacle in their nighties.

Some of the night-flying Bluejays lost their feathers in the feud. These jokers were to appear as Greek gods in a Hopkins theater production.

Testudo came back from Hopkins, but Tabler's hair stayed—a casualty of the three-day battle which took "scalps" from both institutions.
